THE ART OF PORTRAITURE IN COLORED WAX
BY MISS FRANCES MUNDY

WAX PORTRAITS

The Art of Portraiture in Colored Wax, dates back to the middle ages, but during the last century has fallen entirely into disuse.

To revive the Art, Miss Mundy was obliged to work by experiment, as very little has been written of the methods or materials used. Many of the old Wax Portraits have been preserved and may be seen in museums or private collections both in this country and abroad.

Wax as a medium for portraiture is capable of the most delicate modelling and when it is used in color the most exquisite results are possible.
